Medcor offers rewarding opportunities in non-traditional healthcare settings and roles.

Dear Nursing Colleague:

I am writing to invite you to explore the opportunities Medcor offers in rewarding, non-traditional settings and roles. For example, we provide on-site medical staff and services for the major film studios in Los Angeles, as well as for zoos, theme parks, and other industries in the area and over 120 other locations across the country. Our nurses work with great autonomy and responsibility, managing their own clinics and patients. We provide training, state-of the art software, and strong support in clinical, operations, and information systems to make our staff successful.

Right now, we are looking for dynamic individuals to join our staff at two of our studio clinics. We are recruiting for clinic manager and staff positions at the Fox Studio clinic on Pico Boulevard in Los Angeles, and at the Paramount Pictures studio clinic on Melrose Avenue in Hollywood. These are full-time positions on days with benefits. Our staff works directly with the studios and production companies both on and off the studio lots. Our clinic staff is responsible for assessing and treating injuries and illnesses as well as managing administrative duties.

A valid California RN license and current BLS card are required. Clinical experience in an ER or urgent care clinic is preferred. Experience in a teaching role and in the use of Microsoft Office programs is desirable. Clear communications skills are a must – you will have to work effectively with a wide variety of people, from executives to actors to set builders. A strong work ethic and the desire to work independently are essential.

Even if these positions don't work for you right now, we may have other opportunities well-suited for you in the future. Please contact our Human Resources department to introduce yourself. We would appreciate the chance to learn more about you. To learn more about us and apply on-line, please visit our web site at www.medcor.com.
